

Somewhere in the silence the revolution will stop
Then ignorance and hatred can come out on top
Never let this happen always be prepared
To show with actions equality is shared
Rub off the tarnish and let it shine out
To every nation so never shall they doubt
Americans are equal, so was the decree
And by our life and blood it will be

The End

Never and end
 Only a new beginning
Mournful or joyful
 Look to the future
It is the unknown
 Have no fear
Coming regardless
 So accept fate
Believe in yourself
 Work through the pain
Tomorrow will come
 For someone, somehow
So in our limited time
 Never be afraid
Your end has to come
 For you to begin

Society

We must constantly reinvent our society, for each new generation brings with it new ideas, thought, concepts, and heros. As we slide turbulently into our collective future new ideology and standards emerge as the path our culture will travel. Even our history is being rewritten as our views of past facts change. All these changes are a must as our children grow and experience life formulating their own culture, views, and society. As it always is the growing youth overtake the society they were born into and the old guard must gradually yield to the new society. It is this slow progression of society that is essential to keeping the evolution of society going strong. We may neither say these changes are always good or always bad, only that they are changes that must happen. We must welcome the gradual reinventing of our society and the changes in our nation. The species adapts to the environment only physically, intellectually he has the capacity to change his environment.

The idea and goal of a society is to better itself, secure it's future, and work for everyone as everyone works for the whole. In these times of materialism and selfishness the culture has been mutated into a new monster. When coupled with a decline in morality and ethical behavior the society itself becomes threatened by the monster. Gnawing constantly at the basic unit of our society, the family unit. Violence, greed, ignorance, indulgences, selfishness, lowered inhibitions, drugs, poverty, oppression, all just contributing factors to the decline of society into the jaws of the beast. Watching you fall prey and slowly be sucked dry, this is a quiet and quite cloaked monster. It uses your weaknesses, makes you blind with beauty, and self indulgences to steal your freedoms.
